Assignment-7

Write a socket program between client and server to implement file transfer application.
1) Client firsts send the name of the file and then the whole content.
2) Server upon receiving the filename, creates the file by that name and on receiving the content appends it to the file.